The difference is that we are now further down the process than our “normal” consultation timing. We would “normally” (as I understand it) offer consultation after the RDT and before the formal regional recommendation to propose for listing. In that case, R10 is the “decision-maker” and thus we don’t involve HQ. R10 has already “recommended listing” and so now the decision to propose and/or finalize lies with HQ (Administrator, I believe) so the dynamic gets shifted. This happened on the Portland Harbor ROD and since the Administrator ended up signing it, HQ (Jim Woolford on behalf of the Administrator) participate in all the tribal consultations.

Got it. Thanks for the reminder and summary. Good point on HQs role in the consultations. If going forward, it would seem that R10 goes forward with consultation as usual, and it would not involve HQ typically. Hmm. We can coordinate with the various HQ offices to be clear on the process.

Hi, Wally. Just wanted to let you know that I wasn't planning on participating in this meeting as it conflicts with an ARRT Tri-Chairs call. You may just want to also summarize where we are with the tribal consultation piece as I don't know that we have formally communicated with Calvin about the path on that. My understanding of the "path" is that we are not proceeding now to offer consultation more broadly but post June 2nd agency administrator briefing and assuming Bradford isn't taken off the list, we plan to then offer formal consultation – still need to decide HQs role in those consultations though. And if it is taken off the list for whatever reason, we will need to respond to the request from the states and Yakama Nation conveying the decision not to move forward on their request to propose for listing. Hopefully we don't get to that point, but we should probably cc all Tribes with Columbia River U&A on that response to YN.

Let me know how it goes.

Thanks!
